Giulia Megumi Lanza de Cristoforis

Dealing with missing requirements

Limited budget

Old legacy code

Requirements weren't a thing apparently

Toxic workplace
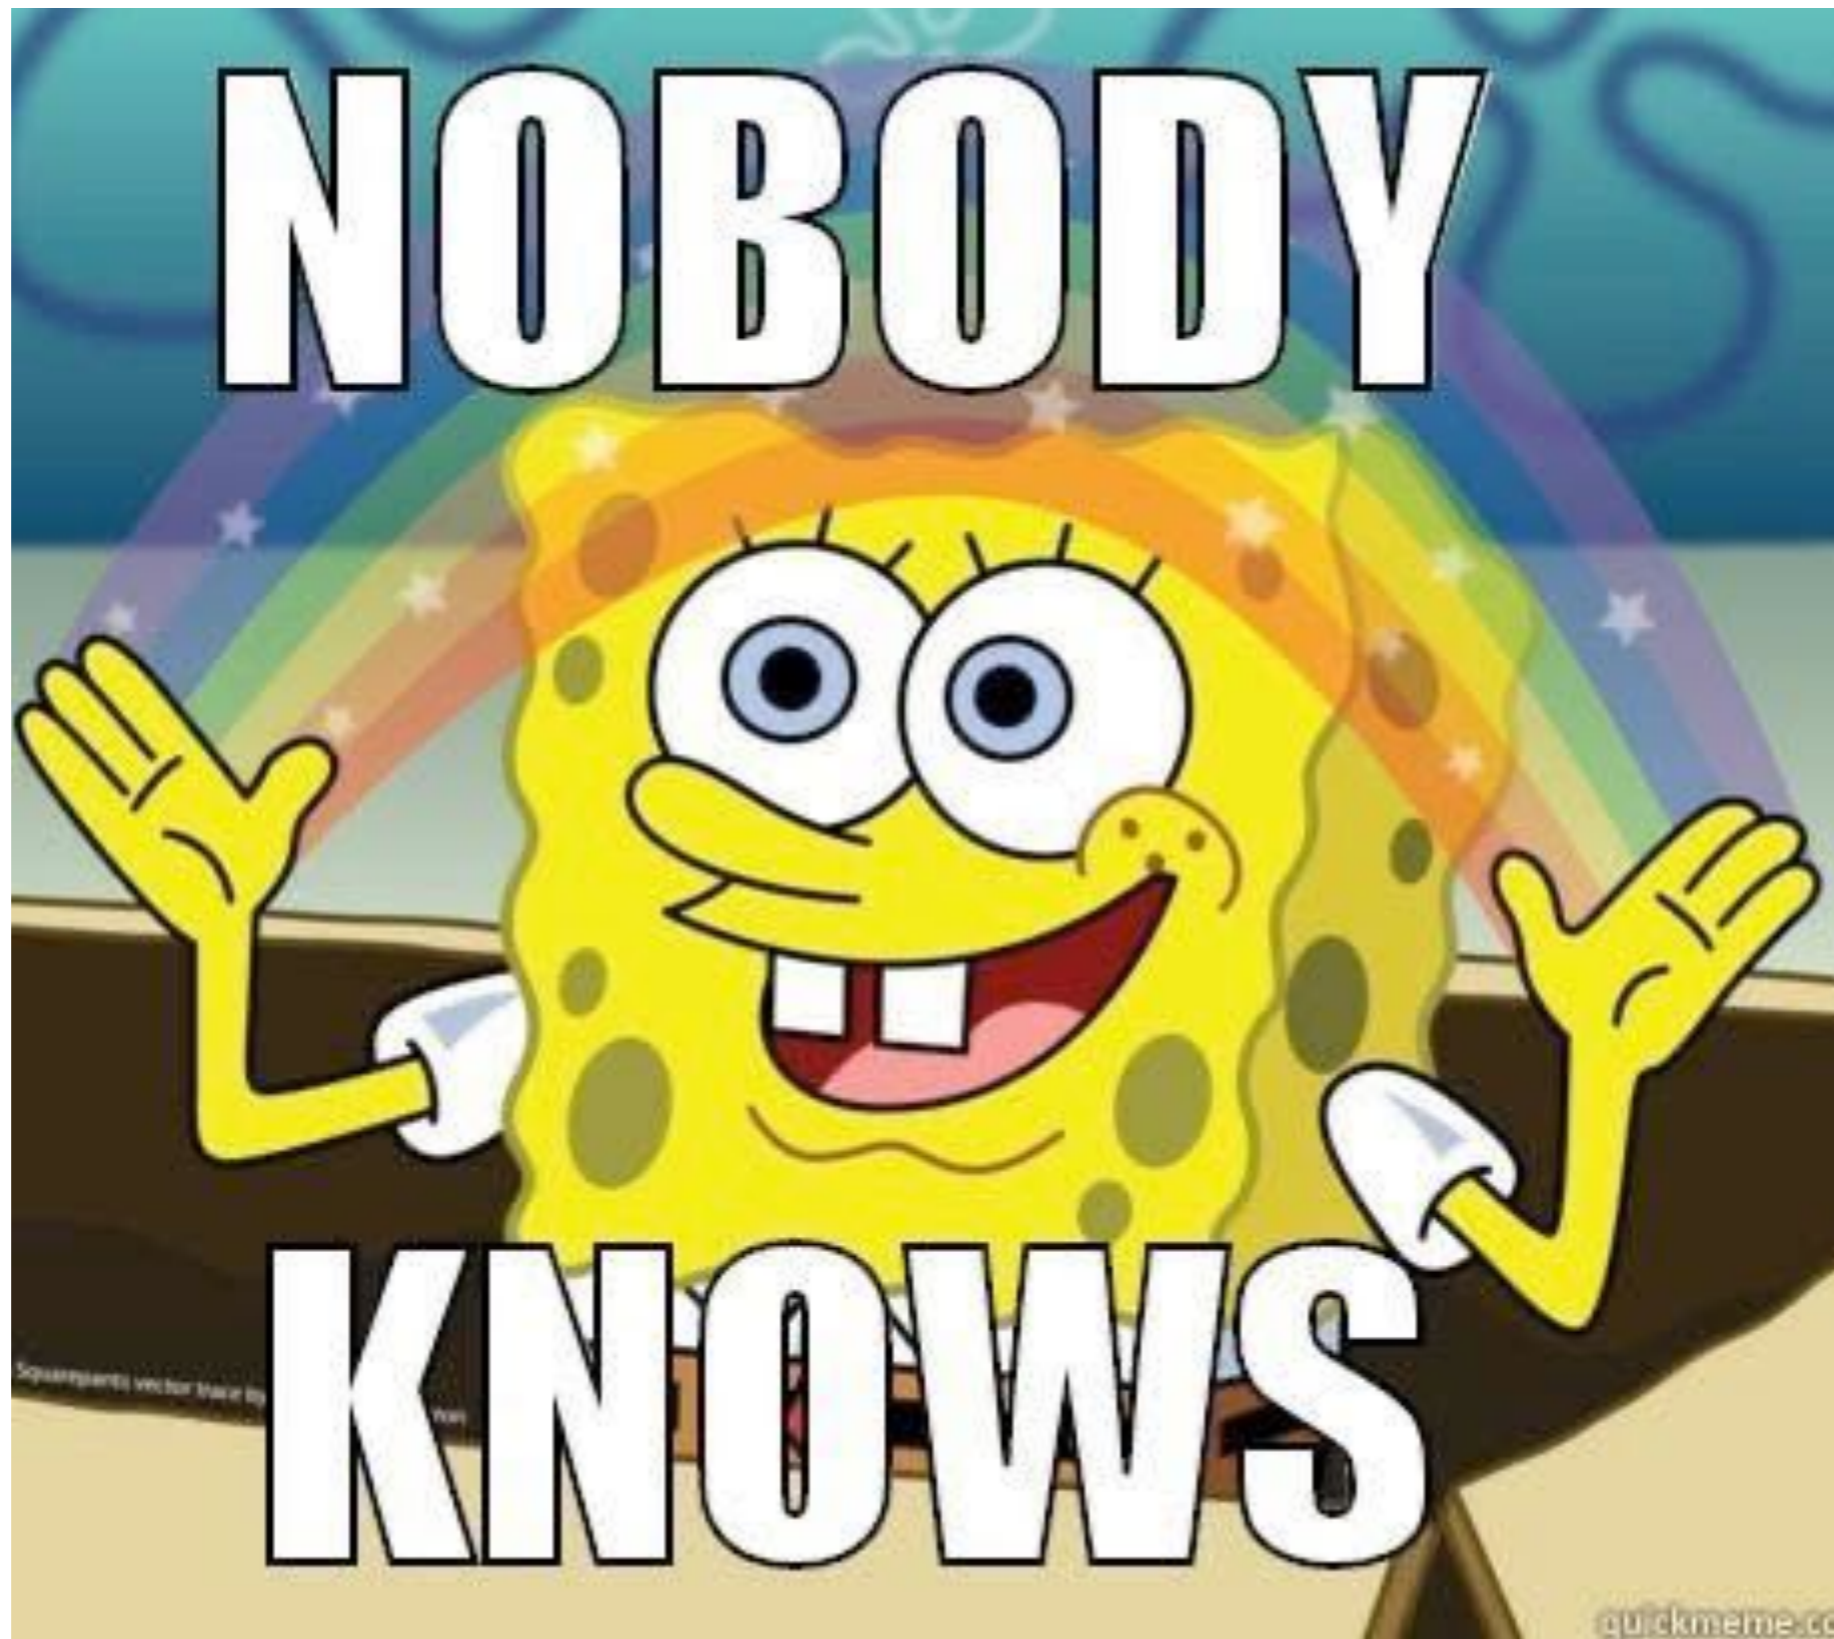

Buried somewhere and nowhere to be found

Sometimes there is no other choice

Asking somebody

Even if sometimes you really don't want to

"Is it hard for you to just ask for some help?"

Me:

REVERSE ENGINEERING

This was supposed to be a Prius
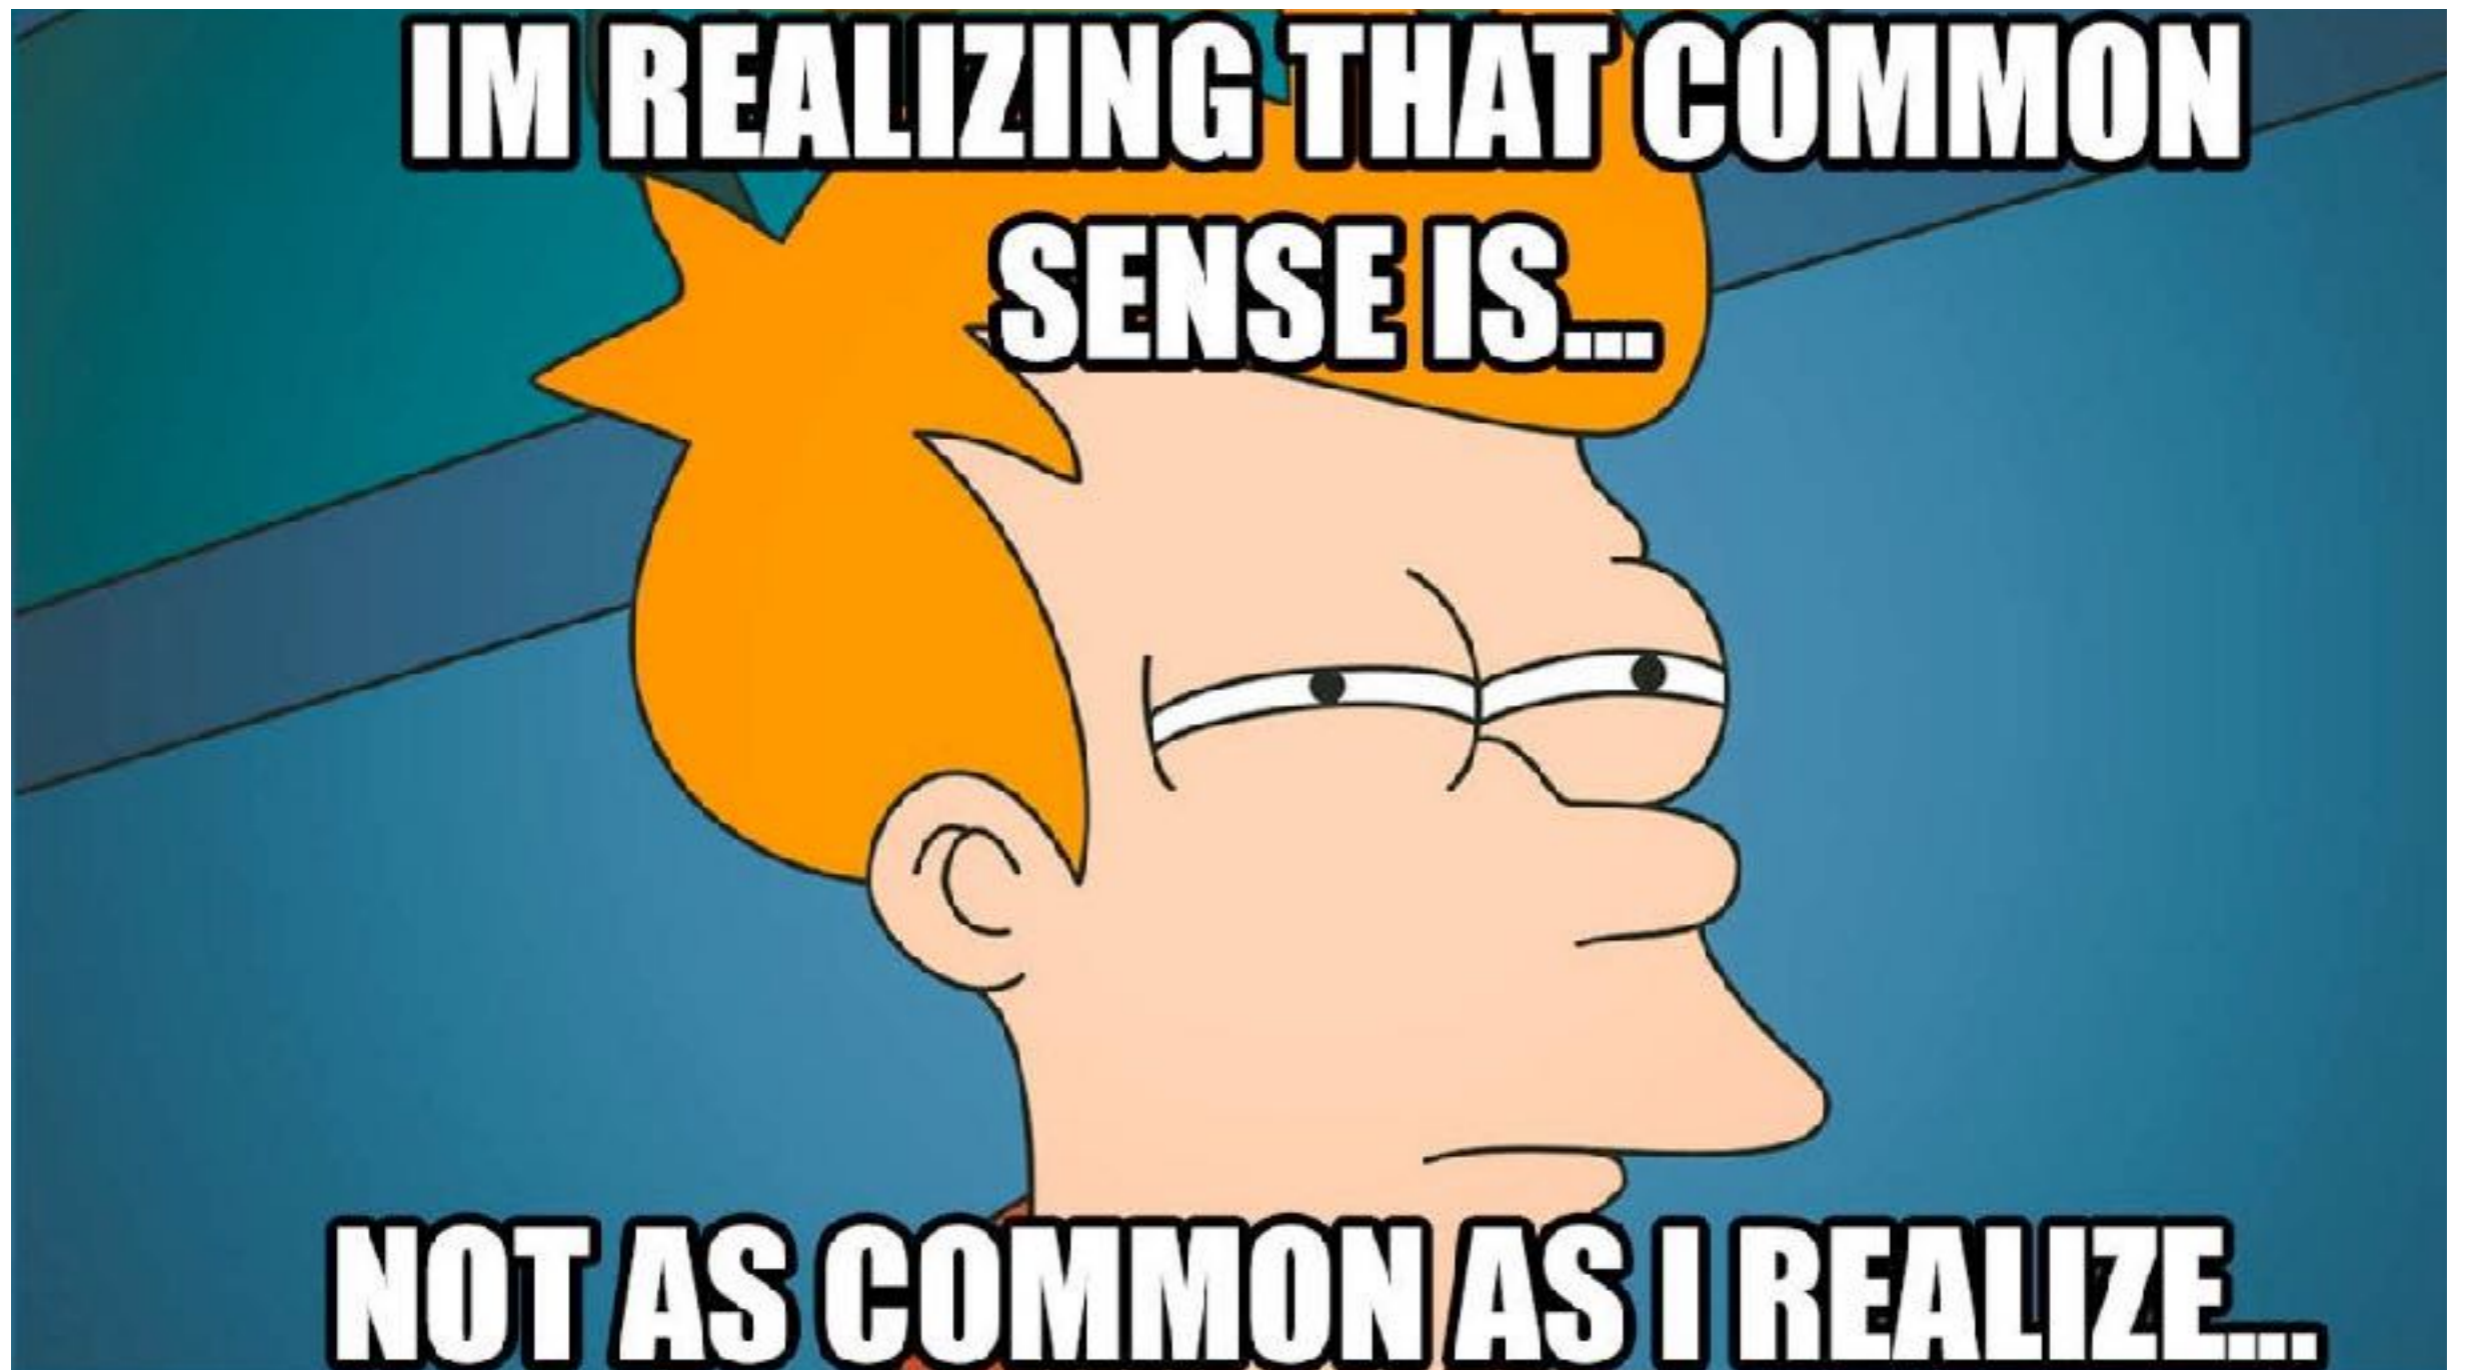

Reverse Engineering

Educated guessing

Common sense

A crystal ball

The lesser of two evils

=> It can be a starting point for some feedback that could potentially lead to actual requirements
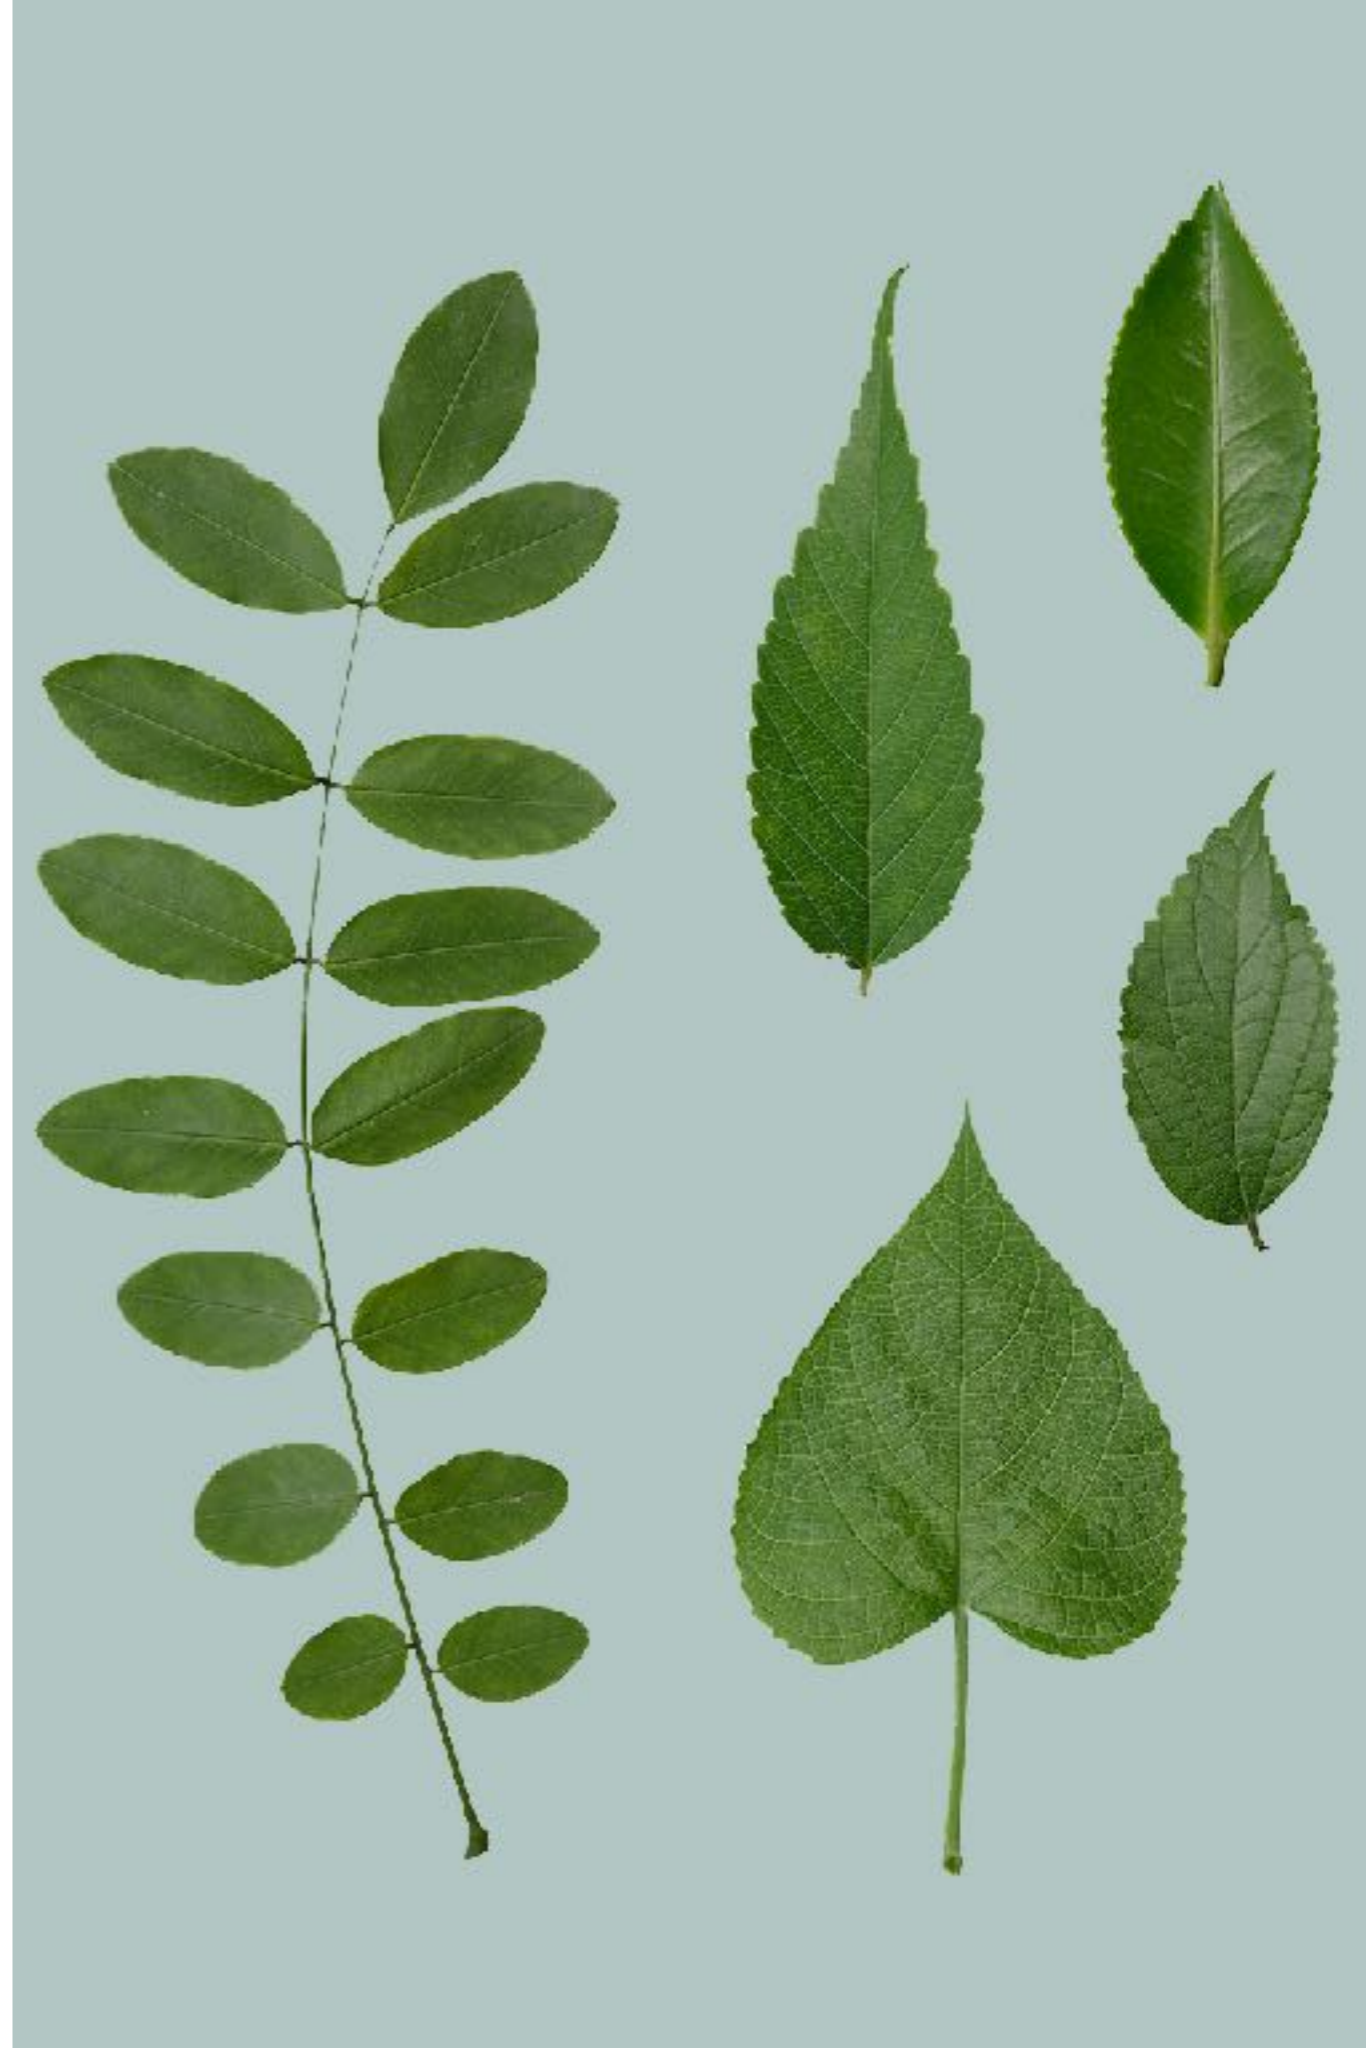

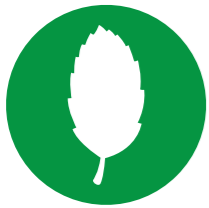

Conclusions

- Sometimes requirements are just not available

- Learning to deal with it the best we can anyways is also part of the job

Questions?

Thank you for listening

giuliamegumi.lanzadecristoforis@css.ch